THE SUNDAY MORNING APPEAL DECEMBER 27, 1868.

HOLLY TIME.

The wood is barron as the weld, The leaves have rasted one age;
The flowers have perished of the cold —
Not even the hot marico'd
Offers her bosom to the now
In holly time.

The wind rend out the empty nest,
The robin shivers in hit song.
There is no warmth to Nature's breas;
Faint glesms of brigs ness at the best,
The glary of the year periong.
In holly time.

Yet sweet as days when alties are blue, And cherries re idea on the wall.— When blossome, fe'l with sun and dew. Their beauty sliently renew.— Yea, sweeter, more desired of all is holly time.

For now, as if the Incarnate Word Walked it again, the seedle carta Remembering the glad tidings heard Of angels, to its heart is a rived With promptings of seconding birth, This holly time.

Joy in life's pulses throbe and burns, The Hours, star crossed, sweep along. Shedding delight from brimming urns; Youth to the heart of age returns, And fans the ashes brands of song At body time. The sacred hearths when to vule-flames rise,

Are siture wherevon, each apart, The households offer sacrifice Out of the tender cancitties And superstitions of the heart, This bolly time,

Thus do celestial glimps:s bless
The stricken world, as though its woos,
lis wins, its surrows fataomies,
Had ending, and the wide roses
Began to blossom like the rose
